How to Use Magic Ink Pens

Take the guess work out of when to use Magic Ink Pens.

These close-ups of embroidered letters give you an idea of what can be saved with a Magic Ink Pen (Figure A) and what cannot be saved (Figure B). Remember, if your embroidery error cannot be “fixed” with the Magic Ink Pen, it may be possible to remove the stitches completely using the Peggy’s Stitch Eraser 3®.

It is important to test the pens on scrap material to get a feel for the way the ink flows and spreads. A little time testing can prevent discouraging results which may occur from improper handling.

Instructions for Use:

It is true that Magic Ink Pens possess wondrous powers to touch up show through bobbin thread. This means, however, that they should be used only in very small areas. Indeed, show through bobbin thread can be covered with just a touch of the tip of pen. Marking up large areas can result in ink seeping through the bobbin fiber into the thread and finally into the garment. And remember, if the situation has gone beyond the Magic Ink Pen’s ability to cover a mistake, it may be time to remove the embroidery from the article and start over again. This can be easily achieved using the Peggy’s Stitch Eraser 3®.

USE OF THE MAGIC INK PENS ON WHITE OR LIGHT COLORED FABRICS IS NOT RECOMMENDED.
